

CAMKit WINS Workshop

The Young Women's Career and Mentor Kit Program present a CAMKit workshop on the career of environmental planner to the Women in Natural Sciences (WINS) Club at the Blue Hill Observatory Science Center in January 2008. Students attend the Galvin Middle School in Canton and other local schools.

Mary White, environmental compliance manager with the MWRA, describes her work in environmental planning. WINS Club students work in teams on innovative hands-on activities assisted by Ms. White and the CAMKit staff.

Looking on is WINS club mentor Stephanie Radner. Katie Birdwell, their science teacher at the Galvin School, and Don McCasland, director of the Blue Hill Observatory, who are not shown, observed the workshop.
